The Company hereby provides the following explanation regarding HHP shares hitting the floor price for five consecutive trading sessions from November 18, 2026 to November 25, 2026:

1. Market factors

Recently, the Vietnamese stock market has undergone a correction, with increased selling pressure across various groups of stocks, weakening market liquidity and increasingly cautious investor sentiment. HHP shares hit the floor price for five consecutive trading sessions due to market supply and demand factors.

2. Business operations and financial results of the Company

The Company's core business operations in the production and trading of industrial packaging paper at its two mills, HHP Paper Hai Phong and HHP Paper Phu Yen, remain stable, with no unusual internal developments.

According to the consolidated financial statements for Q3 2026 disclosed by the Company on October 30, 2026, net revenue for Q3 2026 reached VND 839.39 billion, up 18.93% year on year; consolidated profit after tax reached VND 13.46 billion, up 37.28% year on year.

For the first nine months of 2026, consolidated net revenue reached VND 2,442.54 billion, up 5.23% year on year; consolidated profit after tax reached VND 45.36 billion, up 7.27% compared with the same period in 2025.

The Company continues to focus on implementing its business plans, improving operational efficiency, controlling costs, managing cash flows and utilizing resources efficiently to ensure stable business operations and pursue sustainable development.

2. Corporate governance and information disclosure

With respect to information relating to corporate governance and compliance with laws and regulations on securities and the securities market, the Company duly acknowledges the comments of the competent state authorities and continues to review and improve its corporate governance practices, strengthen internal controls and enhance the quality of information disclosure.

The Company undertakes to fulfill its information disclosure obligations fully and in a timely manner in accordance with applicable laws, ensuring openness, transparency and the right of shareholders and investors to access information.

HHP GLOBAL Joint Stock Company respectfully submits this report and explanation for the information of the State Securities Commission of Vietnam, the Ho Chi Minh Stock Exchange, shareholders and investors.

Thank you for your kind attention.
